IRPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. MORRIS PARK RACH TRACE, July 18.—The rain just knocked spots out of the Monmouth Park Association's fine programme at Morris Park to-day. The track was converted into a big mud puddle, and nearly all of the crack racers were withdrawn as soon as the shower

Racing in the rain is not at all pleasant at Morris Park, though the huge overhanging roof made it possible for people to sit in the front seats without fear of getting wet. Once in a while, though, a gust of wind would drive a shower into the front row, but those were

The crowd was a very slim one. On accoun of the storm most of the crowd came by the new way over the Harlem Bridge via the second Avenue "L" road, and every one "kicked" nimself, figuratively speaking, for oing so. There was delay after delay, and the passage seemed interminable. Vastimprovements will have to be made in that system of transportation. Once at the track, however, all thoughts were turned to the first race and its attendant speculation. Chesapeake was the favorite. His easy win at Jerome Park and his known liking for mud was the reason of this. Correction was heavily backed, however, and his supporters argued that Chesapeake could not give him nineteen pounds and a beating. Arab had considerable support, and Kirk-eastly from Sleipner, who beat Correction just easily.

Before the races at Morris Park to-day Col.

S. D. Bruce sold at auction the entire stable of Chas. Reed & Sons, as well as drafts of yearlings from the Hancocas stud, C. W.
Chapin and others. The yearlings brought poor prices, and didn't average $500 a head.
Reed's lot sold as follows: Walcott, ch. g., 3, by Longton, dam Miss Dance, to J. Mclaughlin, $1.950; Trinity, ch. c., 3, by Porester, dam imp. British Beauty, Boulevard stables, $1,835.

Nearly every horse in the race was supported more or less. Airplant was the favorite, and was strongly supported because or his ability to negotiate the going. Patrimony colt was a good second choice, with the Cadence colt a close third choice.

Morris's stable had lots of backing and Hell Gate was not neglected. The race resulted in a pretty finish between Mars, Cadence colt, and Fremont, the three finishing necks apart as named.

and so there was no chance for this stable to dump the public by winning with the long shot. Castalia was well played 1, 2, 3, as was

It would have been great satisfaction to the backers of Fitzroy had Major Wheeler questioned Lambley about his riding. Sir Launcelot won the race easily.
The second race, a five-furiong dash for two-year-olds, saw Eugene Leigh's colt Irregular the favorite among the ten youngsters.
Although H. Anderson tried his hardest to win with the favorite, the latter could not overtake Belle D. in the stretch, and had to be content with the place. Belle D. won with great case.
